Program Description
This four-week program is designed to enable business and non-business students to undertake business strategy and intercultural communication in Hong Kong, one of Asia’s most dynamic and fascinating cities. In collaboration with the Chinese University of Hong Kong (CUHK) the program entails a combination of course lectures, seminars, as well as visits to prominent business and cultural sites in Hong Kong. Students will meet with leaders from various governmental and industry entities to gain insight into the important role that Hong Kong plays at the crossroads of global commerce. The visits will allow students to learn about strategy and its application in a global context. In addition, students will have the opportunity to experience the unique culture, language, and customs of Hong Kong. The program may also include short excursions to Macau as well as Shenzhen, China.

Georgetown University and the Chinese University of Hong Kong have a long history of academic collaboration. CUHK is one of Hong Kong’s elite universities and is situated in Sha Tin. Sha Tin resides in the New Territories and is about a half hour ride from the city center via MTR subway. The campus is positioned near an inland waterway on a hilly campus with buildings arrayed up the slopes of a hill. The business school is situated adjacent to the subway stop and is located at the base of the campus. The school offers business programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels and maintains several institutes with a decided focus on Hong Kong China related commerce.

Professor Arthur Dong and Assistant Dean Monija Amani, from Georgetown University’s McDonough School of Business, direct the program and collaborate with CUHK faculty and related personnel on the logistics and delivery of curriculum including cultural activities and corporate site visits.

Accommodation
Students reside at the Hyatt Regency Sha Tin Hotel, a teaching hotel, adjacent to campus.
Academics

Upon successful completion of the program, students receive a total of six semester credits for the following two courses:

STRT 283: Strategic Management (Core II business requirement)

MGMT 205: Intercultural Communication (Elective course for management majors and free elective for all others)

All content courses are taught in English; prior study of Chinese is not required. Students should be prepared to attend a course in Chinese language and culture during the program.

Pre-requisites

ECON 001: Principles of Microeconomics

ECON 002: Principles of Macroeconomics

ACCT 101: Accounting I

May be waived on individual basis depending on students’ academics.

Financial Aid

Limited scholarships are available through the Office of Undergraduate Program for McDonough students. The application link is posted on the Hong Kong web page. Students wishing to apply for the scholarship must submit their application to Monija Amani, Senior Assistant Dean, Director of Global Programs.
